Such has been its history, and such it ever will be .-The spirit of Democracy cannot be subdued or annihilated; - It will live while free government shall live-live in the hearts of men-live in the attributes of God-live forever!

This election then has written out the first great lesson-often written but de often forgotten, that the Democratic party is not dead, neither does it sleep. It is a thing of life as active and clastic as when it was breathed into an organized existence by Thomas Jefferson. It is rising up and reaching out for the control of this Government, and it will as surely grasp the object for which it reaches, as that the object itselfshall exist to be grasped. Sailing of the Stone Fleet. Thirty Vessels to be Sunk in Southern Harbors. New London, Conn., Nev. 20.-The stone fleet, not, however, with pomp or banners, sailed to-day. Twelve or fifteen vessels departed from this port, all bound South, and all laden with stone. The crafts were old whalers, some of them of the largest size, but a hard looking set.

They go now to illustrate the ideas of commerce which prevail in the darker portion, girk with sand bars, of our disturbed epublic. A screw is fixed in their bottom which can be worked from the deck. When t is screwed out, the water in a stream as ig as a man's leg comes in and the vessel s sunk. The stone anchors are at the bot-

If his mouth shaking it, as is described, as a dead, which they had collected from the lows and retired to mourn for the sad fate we are waging a war of subjugation—of extermination-then we might well censure the military commander who extends the dive branch to loval men of the South, and seeks to win the hesitating over to the cause of the Union by a policy of justice and rotection. But we have been accustomed to regard this war as a war for the preservation of the Union, for the enforcement of the laws, and for the upholding of that very Constitution whose guarantees are respected by Gen Sherman and despised by the Evening Post.

They now think straightout Republicanism will no longer answer, and that "Union" should take its place. If they had thought so last year there would never have been a war. We welcome them to the Union ranks. Let them come in, get in, anyway, just so that they are in. The door is still open, and -

"The Democratic with him, and not leaving a soldary errap of paper to state what stores could or should be found in the Subsistance or Quartermaster's Department, the strength of the command, the position of the forces, or the date upon which the recent consoless panie was started."

A Good Change.-Last year at this time Republican papers of the North were abusing Union men-calling them "Union savers," "Northern Dough-faces," "Lickspittles" and many other beautiful names. We are glad to see the healthy change in the tone of these papers. They now think straightout Republicanism will no longer answer, and that "Union" should take its place. If they had thought so last year there would never have been a war. We welcome them to the Union ranks. Let them come in, get in, anyway, just so that they are in. The door is still open, and
